Fisher Phillips, one of the country's preeminent labor and employment law firms representing employers, is pleased to announce that Corina Johnson has joined the firm as an associate in the Sacramento office.

Before joining Fisher Phillips, Corina practiced at a Sacramento-based firm focusing on employment law, labor law, and litigation. She also formerly worked for state and local agencies, including the California Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board, the California Franchise Tax Board, and the California Department of Justice.

At Fisher Phillips, she will continue representing employers in workplace law disputes and will also provide companies with counseling and advice on all aspects of their employment relationships.

Corina earned her J.D., with distinction, from the University of the Pacific, McGeorge School of Law, and her B.A. from the University of Southern California. While attending law school, she was inducted as a member of the Traynor Honor Society. She also served on the McGeorge Moot Court Honor Board and was a top-four finalist in the McGeorge 1L Moot Court Competition.
