

Employers in Ohio Directed to Take Worker Temps During COVID-19 Pandemic

Publication

3.23.20

On March 19, 2020, Ohio Governor Mike Dewine requested that any employer that remains open during the COVID-19 pandemic take the temperature of its employees every day before the workday begins. In an article published by SHRM, Melissa Dials explains what the Governor's directive means for employers in Ohio and how more drastic measures might impact employers moving forward amidst the pandemic.
