

Wage and Hour Wednesday: Employer Survival Guide to Office Parties, Charity Events, Volunteering and More

Podcasts

12.22.22

Fisher Phillips Wage and Hour Podcast

Wage and Hour Wednesday: Employer Survival Guide to O...

As many employers transition employees back to the office who have been working remotely, it is a good time to re-evaluate your volunteer programs, training sessions, and other corporate events. November's Wage and Hour Wednesday podcast provides the analysis for common scenarios under the FLSA when determining whether in-person, fully remote, or hybrid events are compensable.

Attorneys Micah Dawson and Matthew Korn join host Hagood Tighe, Co-chair of the firm's Wage and Hour Group, to discuss how failing to properly treat some events as compensable may land you in hot water and lead to unwanted minimum wage and/or overtime claims.

Related People

Matthew R. Korn

Partner

202 516 5150

803.740.7652

Email

J. Hagood Tighe

Partner

803.255.0000

Email

Erica G. Wilson

Associate

412.822.6624

Email

Service Focus

Wage and Hour