

Five Mine Safety Predictions for 2023

Podcasts

2.27.23

Mining Matters

Five Mine Safety Predictions for 2023

As our MSHA team discussed in our new year prediction insight, the Mine Safety and Health Administration appears to have found its footing – and that means mine operators need to be on their toes in 2023. After a presidential administration change, retirements throughout the inspector ranks, and an anemic regulatory agenda, MSHA now appears to be pointed in a new and more robust direction. What do we expect to see in the new year? During this episode, Chris and Arthur discuss their best estimation on the five most likely agency actions and changes that operators can expect in 2023 in key areas including the regulatory agenda, enforcement, and policy.

Related People

Christopher G. Peterson

Partner

Partner
303.218.3653
Email

Arthur M. Wolfson
Partner
412.822.6625
Email

Service Focus

Mine Safety & Health