

Philadelphia Attorneys Discuss Daily Pay For Restaurant Employees

News
2.27.23

In an interview with Restaurant Business, Patrick Dalin and Nan Sato discuss whether restaurant employers should offer daily pay. They explain that some employers have found that offering employees early access to their wages can be a valuable tool for employee satisfaction and retention.

Their advice for restaurant employers in this competitive labor market? “Talk to your employees about what you can do to better attract and retain them. If this solution is appealing to current and prospective employees, it is worth exploring.”

To read the article visit Restaurant Business. They also share their insight in this article with Food Service Director.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Patrick M. Dalin
Partner
610.230.6112
Email

Nan Sato, CIPP/E, CIPP/C
Partner
610.230.2148
Email

Service Focus

Wage and Hour

Industry Focus

Hospitality

Related Offices

Philadelphia