Jennifer Mendez, Fisher Phillips' Senior Director of Knowledge Management Innovation, has been named among the International Legal Technology Association's (ILTA's) 2023 Influential Women in Legal Tech. ILTA is the premier association for technologists in legal, and each March, during International Women's History Month, ILTA selects honorees based on their history of mentorship and level of impact on legal technology. Jennifer is one of only 16 women recognized this year.

Jennifer has been a leader in the legal technology field for over 20 years, and her contributions at Fisher Phillips are endless. She played a key role in the firm being named "Law Firm of the Year" at the 2021 American Legal Technology Awards, which was awarded to Jennifer and the firm for utilizing technology to exceed client expectations in a significant, measurable way, and the firm was chosen after successfully reimagining ways to conduct business during the COVID-19 pandemic. And throughout the past few years, Jennifer has continued to direct the firm in the creation and implementation of a number of transformational changes, including the use of predictive data analytics and A.I., enhanced internal and external client collaboration, and the delivery of advice to clients and prospects in novel ways.

In the coming months, ILTA will produce a video profile about Jennifer's impact on legal technology, and it will be shared across its social and media platforms, and it will also be included in Peer to Peer, ILTA's award-winning quarterly magazine.
