Pickets and work stoppages, ranging from labor union-led strikes to spontaneous employee walkouts, have been occurring at historically high levels. This exciting program will examine the lawfulness of various union activities, and, most importantly, provide your employer with the tools to develop the best contingency plan to counter the effectiveness of a strike or picketing activity.

Join Fisher Phillips Labor Relations Co-Chair, Todd A. Lyon, and partner Steve Miller for a full-day labor relations program on how to prepare for and succeed in the face of strikes, pickets, and boycotts. Whether you are a non-union employer or an employer with a longstanding labor relationship, operations managers, human resources leaders, and labor relations professionals will learn “where the legal lines are” with respect to the latest strike tactics utilized by organized labor – with one eye on where the law stands today – and another on where it may be going.
