

The Importance of a Positive School Culture in Today's World

Event

8.17.23

1:00 PM — 2:00 PM EDT

Schools have encountered significant challenges arising from parent concerns regarding operational decisions as well as academic content. Tensions have also escalated between parents, teachers, and administrators, particularly in discussions about discipline, grading, and other matters. Some parents have taken their grievances to school boards, calling for the removal of school leaders and employees. Furthermore, social media has become a platform for like-minded individuals to vent their frustrations, amplifying their thoughts, often influencing elected representatives who voice discontent with public schools and pass laws granting substantial rights to public school parents. As a result, parents of independent school students are also seeking similar rights.

Unfortunately, these challenges have had adverse effects on schools, making it difficult to retain experienced and quality administrators and teachers due to shifts in parent relations and behaviors, as well as a lack of leadership support.

In this webinar, Fisher Phillips Education Industry attorneys will provide valuable insights to help schools effectively handle complex situations.
