Fisher Phillips, one of the country’s preeminent labor and employment law firms representing employers, is proud to announce that Business Today named Partners Craig Siegenthaler and Todd Logsdon among “Kentucky’s Top 10 Influential Labor & Employment Lawyers in 2023.”

The publication describes both Fisher Phillips partners and the other lawyers on the list as being “integral to ensuring that labor laws and employment standards are met and upheld.” They were all selected for being “skilled strategists, effective communicators, and strong advocates for their clients.”

Business Today explains that this particular top 10 selection is Kentucky’s representation “of the competency and professionalism that should be expected from labor & employment lawyers,” and here is what the outlet printed about both Craig and Todd:

Craig Siegenthaler of Fisher Phillips specializes in employment litigation. He is highly experienced in defending his clients in federal and state courts against a variety of claims, including wage and hour matters.

Serving at Fisher Phillips, Todd Logsdon shows remarkable expertise in OSHA matters as part of his broader labor and employment practice. Colleagues and clientele alike recognize Logsdon as one of the best, providing in-depth analysis and practical advice with the company’s business goals in mind.
