Overview

Linda Gulledge is a partner in Fisher Phillips' Irvine office and a core member of the firm's PEO and Staffing Practice Group. Linda represents employers on employment-related advice and counseling issues, transactional and regulatory matters, including audits, California and multi-state wage and hour compliance, benefits, leave management, and other employment-related legal matters.

In her current practice, Linda helps clients understand and navigate complex legal and regulatory compliance challenges. Linda devotes a significant portion of her practice to working with staffing, gig economy, employer of record (EOR), employee leasing, and Professional Employer Organization (PEO) clients on diverse topics including contracts, start-up advice, mergers and acquisitions, and independent contractor status. She is actively involved in the National Association of Professional Employer Organizations and serves on NAPEO's State Government Affairs Committee. In addition, she regularly conducts seminars, webinars, and training sessions for executives, managers, and human resource professionals on employment law topics.
