Fisher Phillips, an international labor and employment law firm representing employers, received the “Innovations in Knowledge Management” award from Law.com in its Legalweek Leaders in Legal Tech Law Awards 2024. This category “recognizes law firms that have implemented technology to innovate the attorney and law librarian research process or reinvent the role of knowledge management in the firm, including case and regulation research, judicial and court analytics, competitive intelligence, and more.”

“The KM team at Fisher Phillips was instrumental in the early rollout of generative AI in legal, assisting Casetext develop and test their Co-Counsel AI legal assistant and then becoming the first firm in the world to deploy it worldwide,” said Legalweek. “Afterward, they continued to evangelize for legal gen AI and how law firms can use it responsibly for KM and thrive.”
