MINING MATTERS: WHAT'S NEW IN MENTAL HEALTH IN THE WORKPLACE

Podcasts

Jun 10, 2024

For the past two years, the Mining Matters podcast has welcomed Raeann Burgo, a partner in Fisher Phillips' Pittsburgh office, to discuss mental health in the workplace and how mine operators can put steps to promote mental well-being into action. These episodes are among our most downloaded in the podcast's history. This year, Arthur and Chris welcome Raeann back to provide an update on mental health in the workplace, with particular emphasis on safety and health. They also discuss some new resources offered by both OSHA and, for the first time, MSHA, in the area of mental health. The group continues to provide actionable steps that employers can put into practice in their workplace.
