

WORKPLACE LAW UPDATE: 10 ESSENTIAL ITEMS ON YOUR OCTOBER TO-DO LIST

Insights
Oct 4, 2024

It's hard to keep up with all the recent changes to labor and employment law, especially since the law always seems to evolve at a rapid pace. In order to ensure you stay on top of the latest changes and have an action plan for compliance, here is a quick review of some critical developments we tracked in September and a checklist of the essential items you should consider addressing in October and beyond.

— Get ready for Election Day. Employers have their hats on this election season – and FP is here to help. Do your employees get time off to vote? If you're in California, you know you need to post a notice informing employees of their paid-time-off-to-vote rights by October 26? What are your rights and responsibilities as an employer during election season? Visit our Election Season Resource Center for all our thought leadership and practical resources.

— Create your year-end checklist. As the final quarter begins, many employers are turning to the year-end process. While you're planning for raises, bonuses, and employee incentives this comp season, you'll need to account for new laws at the federal, state, and local level that will impact wages for 2025. You'll want to review new minimum wage rates, paid sick leave requirements, and increase the exempt salary threshold – just to name a few. Click to read more about the latest wage and hour developments.

— Prepare for cold, flu, and COVID season. For many businesses, the pandemic seems like a distant memory. However, COVID-19 is not entirely behind us. Indeed, as the cold and flu season approaches, the CDC predicts that COVID-19 cases will increase.

Related People

Kathleen McLeod Caminiti

Partner and Co-Chair, Wage and Hour Practice Group

908.516.1062

Jessica D. Causgrove

Partner

312.346.8061

cases will increase across the country. Here's a brief with five tips to effectively address respiratory illness in the workplace in today's changing landscape.

Follow key SCOTUS cases impacting the workplace. The Supreme Court begins a new term on October 7, and you'll be watching several cases that will likely have a big impact on the workplace. The Justices will grapple with wage issues, coverage under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), liability for a failed cannabis test, and more. Expect more employment and labor cases to be added to the docket, but for now, you should keep an eye on these

Track pay transparency trends. A patchwork of new laws is making multistate compliance complicated, particularly since the details of pay transparency laws vary. If you operate in Maryland, you should already have a compliance plan for a new law that took effect on October 1 requiring employers to disclose wage and benefits information in job listings. Pay transparency laws in Massachusetts will take effect in 2025, and all eyes are on New Jersey, which could be the next state to enact a similar law. Click here to track the latest pay equity developments.

Review your accommodation policies for pregnant workers. Do you know what's required under the Pregnant Workers Fairness Act (PWFA)? You should consider fine-tuning your accommodation efforts after the EEOC filed its first-ever lawsuit under the act on September 10. Here's what employers need to know about this groundbreaking lawsuit and eight things you can take now to ensure compliance.

Keep informed on new AI developments. Federal regulators just unveiled a new website on September 27, providing guiding employers on best practices to avoid artificial intelligence discrimination during the hiring process, including a roadmap of 10 actions you should consider if you want to stay compliant. Additionally, a new law in Illinois will require employers to provide notice to applicants and workers if they use AI for certain workplace-related purposes. Click here for the latest news on AI, Data Analytics.

Don't forget about ongoing non-compete compliance obligations. You probably know the federal non-compete

Leanne Lane Coyle

Associate

610.230.6121

Jonathan Crook

Partner

704.334.9313

Katherine M. DiCicco

Associate

908.516.1084

ban is on ice for now – but that doesn't mean employers free to use non-competes indiscriminately. What in the wake of the FTC's ban is a highly complex, constantly shifting patchwork of state laws that regulate the administration and substance of non-compete agreements. Here's your reminder to-do list, including the top 10 issues you'll still need to tackle, even though the FTC's non-compete ban did not take effect September 4.

Kate Dedenbach, CIPP/US

Of Counsel

248.901.0301

— Prepare for wave of new California laws. Now that California legislative session is essentially over and Newsom has taken action to either approve or veto workplace law bills on his desk, employers can take all the new laws that will soon take effect. Use this h Insight to assemble your checklist of things to do over next few months.

— Track landmark data privacy proposal in Colorado. Employers in the state could soon need to comply with disclosure and consent requirements of the state's new act when they collect biometric identifiers from employees or applicants – which would make Colorado the first state outside of California to impose such obligations on employers. Click here to learn more about the state General's September 13 proposal and for three tips to use to prepare.

Benjamin M. Ebbink

Partner

916.210.0400

We will continue to monitor developments related to all aspects of workplace law. Make sure you are subscribed to Fisher Phillips' Insight System to get the most up-to-date information. If you have questions, contact your Fisher Phillips attorney.

Lauren G. Goetzl

Partner

202.429.3709

Rick Grimaldi

Partner

610.230.2136

Rosa Hernandez

Associate

415.490.9002

---

Service Focus

AI, Data, and Analytics

Counseling and Advice

Employee Defection and Trade
Secrets

Employee Leaves and Accommodations

Employment Discrimination and Harassment

Government Relations

Labor Relations

Litigation and Trials

Pay Equity and Transparency

Privacy and Cyber

Wage and Hour

Workers' Compensation and Unemployment Cost Management

Workplace Safety

---

Industry Focus

Agriculture

Cannabis

Construction

---

Resource Hubs

Trump Administration
Resource Center for Employers