Construction sites and contractors face unique risks when it comes to immigration enforcement. Even with sound onboarding practices and diligent verification of employee work authorization, employers in the construction industry remain vulnerable to unannounced investigations by the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), including audits and raids led by Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), Homeland Security Investigations (HSI), or Customs and Border Protection (CBP).

These enforcement actions can halt jobsite operations, lead to civil and criminal liability for owners, managers, and employees, and create serious disruption across your workforce.

Join us for this webinar, where attorneys from our Employers' Rapid Response Team for DHS Raids and our Crisis & Reputation Management Team will discuss how construction employers can proactively prepare for DHS/ICE worksite enforcement, maintain compliance with immigration laws, and develop practical strategies to minimize business disruption, reputational harm, and legal exposure.

If you have any questions, please contact Monica Kharmatsky.
