

Fisher Phillips Adds Dave Dorey in Washington, DC

News

9.03.25

Fisher Phillips, an international labor and employment law firm representing employers, is pleased to announce that Dave Dorey has joined the firm as Partner in the Washington, DC office. Dave brings a combination of labor and employment, high-stakes litigation, and government affairs experience.

Dave joins from a regional firm where he served as Director of the firm's Labor and Employment practice group. His practice focuses on complex litigation and regulatory matters where he represents clients in federal and state trial and appellate courts, and before federal agencies. Dave works with a wide range of clients, including trade associations, technology companies, nonprofits, and businesses in the agriculture and construction industries, and represents them in class actions, administrative proceedings, rulemaking and other administrative law challenges, and disputes involving wage and hour claims, noncompete agreements, and trade secrets. In addition to his private practice, Dave has served in high-profile Senior Counsel and Chief of Staff positions in the federal government, including as Counsel to the Solicitor of the United States Department of Labor and Chief of Staff for Strategy, Policy and Plans at the United States Department of Homeland Security.

"Dave is a strategic hire for our DC office and our clients across the country will benefit immensely from his arrival," said Dan Farrington, Regional Managing Partner of Fisher Phillips' Washington, DC office. "With his extensive background in complex employment litigation, regulatory compliance, and government affairs, Dave is an ideal addition to our team. His unique background complements and enhances the labor and employment services we currently offer in the greater Washington area."

Dave earned his J.D. from the University of Pennsylvania Law School and his B.A. from the University of Colorado at Boulder. He also holds a Certificate in Business Economics and Public Policy from the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania. Dave is licensed to practice in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, and California.
