Fisher Phillips, an international labor and employment law firm representing employers, is pleased to announce that it has been named a “Litigation Powerhouse” by BTI Consulting Group. The firm earned the “Powerhouse” ranking in the “Complex Employment Litigation” category as part of BTI’s Litigation Outlook 2026 report based solely on in-depth interviews with leading legal decision-makers.

The “Powerhouse” designation means clients singled out Fisher Phillips among the top 1% of law firms for “Complex Employment Litigation.” This small percentage of firms is identified by corporate counsel for their creative problem-solving, commitment to providing outstanding client support, and litigation prowess in the courtroom. Fisher Phillips also earned a “Distinguished” ranking in the Class Actions category and was named among the “Leaders” in the Employment Litigation category.

Fisher Phillips’ Litigation practice spans the firm’s footprint with a team of litigators based in offices across the U.S., Mexico, and Japan who assist clients with matters ranging from class and collective actions, to non-compete litigation, single-plaintiff discrimination or harassment cases. Because of the firm’s international footprint along with its breadth and depth of experience, Fisher Phillips can represent employers in any federal or state court across the country, as well as before any administrative agency or commission where a claim has been brought. By serving as a true business partner to clients, the firm’s Litigation practice provides creative, cost-effective, and innovative tactics to help corporate counsel with litigation.
