Fisher Phillips, an international labor and employment law firm representing employers, is pleased to announce that it has entered into a strategic collaboration with Profluence, the official association for sports business and a leading platform for founders, investors, and executives in the sports industry.

This collaboration brings together Fisher Phillips' innovative legal approach to solving labor and employment issues at all levels of business operations with Profluence's deep network and insights into the sports ecosystem. Together, the initiative aims to build a trusted network to provide the legal counsel and compliance advice needed for sports organizations to scale to success in a complex and rapidly evolving industry.

"This collaboration with Profluence puts Fisher Phillips at the center of sports business innovation to serve as a trusted legal partner for scaling sports, tech, and media companies in key markets across the United States," said Adam Sloustcher, Co-Chair of the firm's Sports Industry Team. "We are positioned to assist the next generation of sports innovators in complying with applicable laws and regulations and proactively avoiding and managing labor and employment disputes before they arise. We understand what's at stake for scaling companies, and, in collaboration with Profluence, we can be there when they need us."

"We're thrilled to collaborate with a legal powerhouse like Fisher Phillips," said Scott Garber, Co-Founder of Profluence. "As a law firm they have the ability to reduce the risk for scaling companies through compliance and strategic counsel, which is a game-changer for our members that need legal support like this to truly help them build faster, smarter, and more efficiently in the sports industry."

Fisher Phillips' Sports Industry Team is a dedicated group of former collegiate and professional athletes helping professional franchises and leagues, collegiate conferences, individual colleges and universities, youth sports clubs and organizations, and other sports companies and organizations navigate all workplace-related issues and litigation.
