Even if you don't use AI technology during the hiring process, odds are that your applicants are. And if you haven't adapted the way you do things to match this growing trend, you're in danger of falling for some increasingly common tactics that can lead to trouble.

Join us for this fast-paced, interactive, 30-minute session where we'll discuss the issues to spot (from applicants gaming the interview to deepfake candidates) and some practical solutions you can put to use right away to ensure authenticity in your hiring process.
