

Virtual Office

Overview

Our clients demand talented, experienced, practical, and efficient outside lawyers. At the same time, we recognize that many lawyers value more of a work-life balance, greater flexibility, and the opportunity to focus on the practice of law without a variety of additional obligations.

Fisher Phillips' Virtual Office gives everyone what they need.

The firm's Virtual Office is a team of experienced Fisher Phillips attorneys who work remotely and focus exclusively on employment law, free from the additional responsibilities that often accompany a traditional partner-track role. Many of our Virtual Office attorneys have previously been partners or senior associates at other firms or in high-level in-house jobs and now prefer a role that allows them to concentrate solely on practicing law at a high level with access to all of the firm's extensive and innovative resources.
