Overview

McKaylin Hughes defends employers in a wide range of matters, including claims of discrimination, wrongful termination, retaliation, and wage and hour non-compliance as well as regulatory investigations. McKaylin has over five years of employment litigation experience, including a significant emphasis within the healthcare system. She handles claims under the Washington State Fair Labor Standards Act and other employment statutes, guiding businesses, hospitals, and regulated industry employers through high-stakes disputes, internal investigations, and risk mitigation.

Before joining Fisher Phillips, McKaylin served as an associate at a full-service regional firm, where she focused on employment, healthcare, and regulatory litigation. Her earlier roles as a legal extern for a major health system and as a law clerk supporting employment and wage claims further enhance her perspective on the practical and legal challenges facing employers.
