Payroll is time-consuming, and a simple misstep could have you on the hook for thousands, making wage and hour issues one of the most common—and costly—compliance challenges for hospitality employers. With high turnover, fast-paced operations, and employees often working multiple roles across a single workday, payroll, and timekeeping errors can happen quickly and create significant exposure.

In this session, we'll break down the top five wage and hour mistakes hospitality employers make—many of which stem from everyday payroll practices like tracking hours, managing schedule changes, and ensuring accurate pay for all time worked. Attendees will leave with clear, practical strategies to help strengthen internal practices, improve consistency across locations, and prevent disputes before they escalate.

We'll also be joined by guest speaker Anthony Presley from TimeForge, who will share real-world insights into common timekeeping challenges in hospitality and tools that can help employers improve compliance.
