Master the complexities of workplace investigations with a business-forward approach tailored specifically for the staffing industry. This training opportunity is specially made for staffing agency HR teams, legal departments and other leaders who may be called upon to investigate a workplace issue. This program gives attendees the clarity and confidence to handle virtually every type of investigation the right way every time, from allegations of harassment, discrimination, or retaliation to potential fraud, theft, or workplace violence, as they transform complex compliance requirements into manageable, proactive business processes.

If you have a large team, we welcome an opportunity to speak with you about our company-specific training program.
