STEWART LAW GROUP JOINS FORCES WITH FISHER PHILLIPS IN DALLAS

Firm Continues Strategic Growth in Texas with Addition of Amy M. Stewart and her Team

News
Jul 20, 2026

Fisher Phillips, an international labor and employment law firm with over 800 lawyers, and the Stewart Law Group, a prominent Dallas-Fort Worth-based litigation boutique, have combined practices under the Fisher Phillips name. As of July 20, 2026, the firm, led by Amy M. Stewart, has joined forces with Fisher Phillips to increase the breadth and depth of what the firm's growing Texas-based team can do for clients across the nation.

Stewart Law Group is the largest minority and woman-owned civil litigation firm based in Texas, known for partnering with clients to resolve labor and employment litigation matters through settlement, trial, or arbitration. The firm's service areas closely align with Fisher Phillips' practices and industry teams, including, litigation and trials, workplace investigations, labor relations, and sports. Given her client base and experience, Amy Stewart will assume the role of Vice Chair of Fisher Phillips' Sports Industry Team alongside longtime leaders Adam Sloustcher and Todd Scherwin.

"The synergies between our two firms make this a true combination of strengths for clients in Texas and across the nation," said John Polson, Chairman and Managing Partner of Fisher Phillips. "The capabilities they bring will strengthen our core practice areas, expand our industry-focused teams, and play an important role in our strategic growth in a key geographic market."

"Amy and her team have been embedded in the Dallas-Fort Worth business community for decades, and joining forces with them is not just about growing our headcount; it is about expanding our reach and capabilities in the local market and beyond," said Adam Sloustcher, Regional Managing Partner of Fisher Phillips' Dallas office. "Amy has nurtured such a talented group of practitioners, and, as a former professional soccer player, I like to say that she is one of those select players that everyone wants on their team. She's a tremendous leader with the talent to match, and those qualities are always part of a winning squad. We are thrilled to welcome her and the team to our expanding Texas bench."

Amy M. Stewart, founding partner of the Stewart Law Group, added: "Fisher Phillips' powerful international platform opens a world of opportunities for us while still allowing us to continue delivering the customized and responsive service our clients have come to expect from our group. The alignment between our firms' cultures, our shared commitment to serving as strategic business partners to our clients, and the opportunities for our attorneys to grow their practices made this the right call for our next chapter. I am very impressed with how Fisher Phillips has leaned in on the ethical use of AI to provide efficient and exceptional service to its clients. We will continue to deliver wins for our clients as we become fully integrated with Fisher Phillips and all it has to offer."

In total, a group of 4 attorneys will be joining Fisher Phillips, which includes founder and partner Amy M. Stewart, partner Andrea Cook, and attorneys Conrad W. John and Blaine E. Adams.

Amy M. Stewart founded and led the Stewart Law Group, the largest minority and woman-owned business litigation defense firm in Dallas-Fort Worth that in 2026 is ranked the sixth largest Black-Owned Business in North Texas by the Dallas Business Journal. She is a first chair litigator and trial lawyer who resolves business, labor, employment, and product liability matters for a number of Fortune 100 clients. In addition to her trial practice, Amy is certified as a mediator and arbitrator and presides over business and employment litigation matters. She is also a highly sought-after investigator who leads high-profile and sensitive ethics and workplace-related investigations.

Amy believes her legal success is partially a result of her years playing and coaching Division I college basketball before shifting her focus to the courtroom. Amy's unique background guides her to build strong teams that zealously compete on her clients' behalf with an aggressive yet respectful approach.

Beginning in August 2026, Amy will serve as Chair of the American Bar Association Litigation Section, the country's largest association of litigators and trial attorneys. She also serves on the Board of the Texas Association of Defense Counsel and holds leadership roles in the International Association of Defense Counsel.

Andrea Cook served as the Managing Partner of Stewart Law Group, where she focused her practice on labor and employment law, workplace investigations, labor arbitrations, and employment counseling. She also represents clients in complex business litigation, product liability matters, catastrophic injury cases, and other high-stakes disputes.

A certified mediator and arbitrator, Andrea was selected as a Fellow of the American Arbitration Association's Higginbotham Fellows Program. She serves as Chair of the Employment and Labor Relations Committee of the ABA Section of Litigation, is a Member of the State Bar of Texas Law Practice Management Committee, and serves as faculty for the National Institute for Trial Advocacy (NITA).

Andrea has been recognized by Law.com for its Women, Influence & Power in Law Awards, as a Managing Partner National Finalist. She has been recognized in Best Lawyers for the past three consecutive years and was also named among D CEO's Emerging Women Leadership Network for 2025–2026. Andrea is known for providing practical, strategic counsel and effective advocacy to employers and businesses facing complex legal challenges.

Conrad W. John joins from the Stewart Law Group with nearly 10 years of litigation experience representing businesses, employers, financial institutions, insurers, and individuals in complex disputes. His practice spans business and commercial litigation, labor and employment, consumer disputes, workplace investigations, and insurance matters, with substantial experience in trial, mediation, arbitration, and appellate matters. Conrad has been recognized by D Magazine as one of Dallas' Best Lawyers Under 40 (2024
