Fisher Phillips, an international labor and employment law firm representing employers, has again been recognized by Chambers and Partners in its Chambers Latin America 2027 Guide. Germán de la Garza De Vecchi, Regional Managing Partner of the firm's three offices in Mexico, moved up to Band 2, while Jaime Rodríguez is now reflected in the guide following his arrival to the firm.

Chambers Latin America ranks and reviews the best law firms and lawyers across 19 jurisdictions, spanning Mexico, Central America, and the Caribbean, as well as all Spanish-speaking countries in South America. The rankings are based on in-depth interviews with attorneys, clients, and businesses, resulting in a selection of law firms and lawyers who are said to be "the most suitable providers of legal help when it really matters."

Germán de la Garza De Vecchi leads Fisher Phillips' Mexico offices and is known as one of the few "go to" lawyers in Mexico for large international companies facing difficult labor relations issues in the complex, ever-evolving Mexican union environment. With more than two decades of experience and a track record of results, his credibility among union leaders, government officials, and regulators enables him to achieve clients' goals in negotiations. Germán continues to play a vital role in the region's economic growth and served as an advisor to regulators on recent reforms to labor laws in Mexico.
