OVERVIEW

Julio Ragas advises individuals and businesses on a broad range of U.S. immigration matters, including family-based, humanitarian, employment-based immigration, consular processing, and proceedings before the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR). His experience includes removal proceedings, appellate support, adjustment of status, asylum, waivers, employment authorization, employment-based petitions and visa classifications.

Before joining the firm, Julio served as an attorney and Immigration Department Manager at a regional law firm, where he led day-to-day operations of a high-volume immigration practice while contributing substantively to complex immigration matters. He supervised and trained legal staff, developed case-management and quality-control procedures, and played an active role in case analysis, legal research, issue identification, and developing and preparing strategies for complex and sensitive immigration matters.

Julio's immigration practice is complemented by more than a decade of broader professional experience in legal, business, consulting, and management roles across the United States, Europe, and Latin America. Earlier in his career, he advised businesses on commercial transactions, contracts, regulatory compliance, corporate operations, consumer protection, and cross-border matters. This international background contributes to his practical, business-oriented approach to client service.
