Associate

New Jersey908.516.1034

Service Focus

- Counseling and Advice
- Employment Discrimination and Harassment
- Litigation and Trials

OVERVIEW

Ashlin Miller defends businesses in employment-related litigation, focusing on claims involving wage and hour disputes, workplace compliance, discrimination, harassment, and retaliation under federal and state laws, including Title VII and the FLSA. She counsels clients through various phases of litigation from conducting internal investigations and managing discovery to drafting pleadings, preparing witnesses, and developing strategy for hearings and mediations.

Before joining Fisher Phillips, Ashlin was a litigation associate at a full-service regional law firm, where she represented clients in employment-related disputes and other complex litigation matters. She previously served as a judicial extern for a federal magistrate judge, gaining valuable insight into case management and litigation strategy that informs her current practice.
