CROSS-BORDER AGRICULTURE: NAVIGATING U.S. AND MEXICO LABOR & EMPLOYMENT LAWS

Event

Sep 22, 2026

12:00 pm - 1:30 pm PDT

Agricultural employers operating in today's interconnected labor market face increasingly complex employment, immigration, and labor relations requirements on both sides of the U.S.-Mexico border.

Join labor and employment attorneys from the United States and Mexico for a practical discussion of the key legal and workforce issues affecting growers, farm labor contractors, harvesters, packers, shippers, and other agricultural employers. The program will compare important aspects of U.S. and Mexican labor laws and provide insight into the employment practices and legal framework Mexican agricultural workers may encounter before arriving in the United States.

Topics will include Mexico's immigration and employment framework; agriculture-specific labor regulations; best practices throughout the employment relationship, from hiring through termination; union and collective bargaining considerations; and the labor provisions and Rapid Response Labor Mechanism under the USMCA.

Attendees will leave with a better understanding of the cross-border legal landscape and practical considerations for managing an agricultural workforce.
