

Dispatches From the ABA OSHA Midwinter Committee Meetings - OSHA Updates

Insights

The annual ABA Midwinter OSHA Committee Meeting always provides insight into where OSHA, MSHA, the DOL Solicitors and other agencies will be heading. As a frequent speaker and longtime member of this group, I'll tweet updates throughout this week's sessions, including the Asst. Secretary of Labor for OSHA and others.

Earlier today, Tom Galassi, OSHA Director, Directorate of Enforcement, followed Susan Harthill, Deputy Solicitor of Labor and Ann Rosenthal, Associate Solicitor of labor for Occupational Safety and Health. We reviewed OSHA statistics, which included a slight decline in inspections largely due to OSHA's limited resources. We talked about where OSHA is targeting these resources, the effect of the new self-reporting requirements for amputations, single hospitalizations and eye loss. Much is still the same. Construction accounted for about 2/3 of citations and membership in the Severe Violators Enforcement Program. OSHA's request for a "Root Cause Analysis" following a report of amputation, single hospitalization and eye loss promoted spirited discussion. OSHA continues to wrestle with how to implement the Reporting rule and follow up, and the "Rapid Response Inspection" process is a work in progress.
