We wanted to let you know about the next 3 editions of Workplace Safety Wednesdays so that you are able to save the dates for you calendar. There are some great topics coming up, so please feel free to register by clicking the links below and share this information with your friends and colleagues!

Wednesday, January 15, 2014 – Effectively Contesting MSHA/OSHA Citations

During the January edition of Workplace Safety Wednesdays, we will provide useful tips for Companies on how to effectively manage an MSHA/OSHA inspection, and contest citations.

Wednesday, February 19, 2014 – Role of Safety in Labor Relations Strategy

During the February edition of Workplace Safety Wednesdays, we will be discussing how to integrate safety into a successful labor relations strategy and keep your facility union free.

Wednesday, March 19, 2014 – Criminal Liability under MSHA/OSHA and Environmental Laws

During the March edition of Workplace Safety Wednesdays, we will review criminal liability under the Mine Act, the OSH Act, and environmental laws. As a former prosecutor, Betsy will provide some useful tips on how to protect yourself from criminal liability and defend your Company in the event of an investigation.

We hope you can make it for all three, but as always, if you miss one of the webinars, they will be posted shortly after the presentation on Fisher Phillips' Webinar Library (you can also check out past editions of Workplace Safety Wednesdays here and other useful labor and employment issues).

Please let us know if you have any questions or suggestions for future presentations!
