Service Focus

- Counseling and Advice
- Litigation and Trials

OVERVIEW

Kristen Mullis represents and advises employers in a range of labor and employment matters, with a focus on employment litigation and workplace counseling. Her experience includes individual, class, and PAGA matters, as well as claims arising under California's Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA) and wage and hour laws.

Kristen represents employers throughout the litigation process, including discovery, depositions, motion practice, mediation, and trial preparation. She develops litigation strategies based on the facts of each matter and clients' objectives and provides ongoing analysis to help clients evaluate claims, potential exposure, and options for resolution.

She also counsels employers on workplace issues and helps clients navigate complex employment challenges. Kristen takes a thoughtful approach to her work, focusing on understanding clients' needs, keeping them informed, and providing careful attention throughout a matter.

Before joining Fisher Phillips, Kristen practiced at California law firms, where her experience included employment litigation as well as business and contract disputes, workers' compensation, and other civil litigation matters.
