

Voters Approve Minimum Wage Hikes In San Francisco And Oakland

Insights

11.06.14

On Tuesday, San Franciscans overwhelmingly voted to raise the City's minimum wage to $15.00 over the next few years. The San Francisco current minimum wage of $10.74 is already higher than both the federal minimum wage of $7.25 and California's minimum wage of $9.00. Under the new law, wages will rise to $11.05 on January 1, 2015, then to $12.25 in May 2015, before increasing every year until they reach $15.00 in 2018.

Read more.

Related People

Juan C. Araneda

Partner

415.490.9012

Email