OVERVIEW

Sharon Shenderovskiy advises and represents employers on labor and employment matters, including workplace compliance, employment discrimination and harassment claims, and litigation. She draws on her legal training and experience to help businesses navigate employment-related issues and regulatory requirements.

Before becoming an associate at Fisher Phillips, Sharon worked as a law clerk at the firm, where she assisted with drafting federal and state compliant employee handbooks, monitoring legislative developments affecting Florida employers, and researching employment litigation issues involving discrimination, harassment, and confidentiality agreements. She also participated in client consultations and regulatory trainings, with experience in industries including education, technology, manufacturing, and automotive dealerships.

Sharon's additional legal experience includes a judicial internship with Florida's Third District Court of Appeal and work at law firms involving commercial litigation, appellate matters, and corporate transactions. She also represented foster youth through the University of Miami School of Law's Children and Youth Law Clinic, gaining experience in client advocacy and case management.

Sharon earned her J.D. from the University of Miami School of Law, with a concentration in Litigation and Dispute Resolution. While at the University of Miami, Sharon was a member of the Charles C. Papy, Jr. Moot Court Board, where she received the Best Brief Awards at the National Appellate Advocacy Competition and the NYU Immigration Competition. Sharon also received the CALI Excellence for the Future Award in her Legal Communication and Research II class, as well as the Dean's Certificate of Achievement Award in Legal Research Techniques. She also holds an M.S. in Management and a B.A., magna cum laude, in Sociology and Criminology from the University of Florida.
