OVERVIEW

Allyssa Rose defends clients in labor and employment disputes, handling discrimination, harassment, wrongful termination, disability accommodation, pregnancy, and wage-and-hour claims, as well as PAGA representative actions. She has managed caseloads from intake through resolution, supporting case strategy, staffing, and client communication efforts.

Previously, at a two-attorney defense firm, Allyssa built deep experience in complex motion practice and discovery management. She drafted successful motions for summary adjudication, motions to compel arbitration, and numerous discovery-related motions. Her analytical capabilities delivered measurable results—including an analysis of employee records in a PAGA matter that saved the client over $9.5 million at settlement.

CIPP/US-certified, Allyssa's background also includes serving as an associate at a national law firm where she managed a docket of employment litigation matters and achieved favorable results in high-stakes disputes. Additionally, she gained valuable experience with a San Francisco-based firm where she conducted workplace investigations into harassment and discrimination complaints and interviewed clients in preparation for discovery and depositions.
