PROTECTING YOUR COMPETITIVE EDGE: HOW TECH COMPANIES CAN SAFEGUARD TRADE SECRETS AND CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

Event
Dec 10, 2026
1:30 pm - 2:30 pm EST

For technology companies, protecting trade secrets and other confidential information, such as proprietary software, product designs, development plans, and more, is critical to maintaining a competitive edge. Employee departures, remote work, and AI tools can create new opportunities for sensitive information to leave your organization, making a thoughtful, proactive approach, essential.

Join Fisher Phillips partners Dave Walton and Jonathan Crook for a practical discussion on safeguarding trade secrets and confidential information throughout the employment relationship. We'll look at specific challenges tech industry companies are exposed to and explore strategies for minimizing trade secret theft and misuse of confidential information. We will also discuss AI's role in both exposing trade secrets to risk, as well as protecting them, and how companies can manage these risks and opportunities.

Attendees will leave with practical strategies and actionable steps to strengthen internal safeguards, reduce the risk of unauthorized disclosure, and respond effectively when trade secrets or confidential information may have been compromised.
