

Fisher Phillips to Partner with EHS Today for America's Safest Companies Conference – Atlanta, GA

Event

10.28.13

Fisher Phillips and EHS Today, the nation's largest safety publication, will co-sponsor the second annual America's Safest Companies Conference at the Intercontinental Hotel in Atlanta, Georgia, October 28-30, 2013. The conference brings together top experts in corporate safety and health to examine many of the critical safety and health issues facing corporate America today.

Join hundreds of safety professionals from around the country for a program focused on innovative and cutting edge practices being used by America's safest companies. The America's Safest Companies Conference will provide you with tools and best practices to greatly enhance your company's safety program, while at the same time improve your organization's operational excellence and profitability.