International Employers Forum Breakfast Meeting

Hello and Goodbye: Global Laws in Hiring and Employment Termination

Fisher Phillips proudly sponsored the International Employers Forum Breakfast Meeting on May 9.

A lively panel discussion addressed employment law and human resource issues for numerous global regions, including Australia, the United Kingdom, Asia, Latin America, Canada and the Caribbean and other areas of the world.

Multi-national employers often find that the biggest human resource challenges occur at the beginning and end of employment relationships. The majority of countries outside the U.S. do not have employment at will, and also have numerous employee protections not generally seen in the U.S., such as: required written employment agreements and contract terms; restrictions on the ability of employers to discharge employees; required notice periods and/or severance payments; different laws regarding non-competition clauses; and procedures employers must follow when disciplining or separating employees.

The panelists covered:

- Practical advice on how best to manage issues involving employee hiring and separation.
- Employment agreements, non-competition clauses, employee discipline and discharge, reductions in force and severance agreements.
- How to avoid pitfalls to best ensure successful business ventures outside of the United States.

The following panelists lead this discussion:

Joydeep Hor, Managing Principal, People + Culture Strategies, Sydney, Australia

David Nocek, Member, Board of Directors, International Employers Forum; HR Director, Ashland, Inc. Wilmington, DE.

William Wright, Board of Directors, International Employers Forum; Partner, Fisher Phillips, Philadelphia, PA
