- What documents should you dispose of and when?

- What are the best methods for document retention?
- How should you store sensitive data in this age of privacy?

Every organization has hired someone that turned out to be a bad fit. From a legal standpoint, terminations can be one of the riskiest decisions your HR team will consistently make. In this seminar, you will learn:

- The proper steps to follow to help ensure that you and your company are avoiding the risks of employment-related claims.
- The pros and cons of severance agreements and exit interviews.
- Real-world situations and solutions for those employees who make protected complaints during the discipline process.
- How to deal with employees who's performance has deteriorated because of a medical condition, and/or employees who are a bad fit for your organization.

The Perils and Pitfalls in Wage and Hour Law

Wage and hour compliance laws continue to be a quagmire for many employers – and a target for state and federal agencies and plaintiffs' lawyers. In this session, we will review the most common trouble spots for employers and discuss ways employers can proactively reduce their wage-and-hour liability. Some of the specifics we will be covering will include:

- Common misclassification mistakes.
- How to properly compute overtime pay, including how to factor bonuses and other nondiscretionary wages into overtime payments.
- What are an employer's timekeeping obligations?
- What records must an employer maintain and for how long?
