Employees Gone Rogue – Best Practices for Discipline and Termination Policies

Every organization has hired someone that turned out to be a bad fit. From a legal standpoint, terminations can be one of the riskiest decisions your HR team will consistently make. In this seminar, you will learn:

- The proper steps to follow to help ensure that you and your company are avoiding the risks of employment-related claims.
- The pros and cons of severance agreements and exit interviews.
- Real-world situations and solutions for those employees who make protected complaints during the discipline process.
- How to deal with employees who's performance has deteriorated because of a medical condition, and/or employees who are a bad fit for your organization.

These questions and more will be addressed with a focus towards preparing you and your office for an agency audit of your company's personnel records.
