Question and Answer

Personal Relationships in the Workplace: Both Friend and Foe

Whether it be romantic relationships, friendships or enemies, personal relationships are a part of the workplace and can help or hinder the business. Personal relationships also create employment law issues and headaches that every owner, HR professional or manager may have to navigate. This presentation will focus on common problems that arise from interpersonal relationships in the workplace and the best practices for preventing these issues from escalating into lost productivity, or worse, a lawsuit.

There is no cost to attend this briefing. Space is limited – attendance will be awarded on a first-come, first-served basis.

This program has been submitted to the HR Certification Institute for review

Please RSVP no later than February 17, 2015.
