Attorneys Steve Bernstein and Theresa Gallion will present a webinar entitled "The Changing Landscape of Joint Employer Status: Preparing for the Future in Light of the Labor Board's BFI Decision."

In an August 2015 decision, the NLRB announced a broad new standard for determining whether two businesses are "joint employers" for purposes of collective bargaining. Browning-Ferris Industries of California, Inc. Under this new standard, joint employment now exists even where one company only has the right to exert indirect or potential control over the terms and conditions of another company's employees. The NLRB has left the door ajar for the labor movement to continue its aggressive push into more and more workplaces, and unions stand to rush in to fill the vacuum.

This webinar will address the slippery and dangerous slope the BFI decision has created for many employers.
