

Tough Questions about Workplace Violence

WEBINAR

Event

3.29.16

This webinar was originally presented on March 29, 2016.

Please join attorneys Howard Mavity and Travis Vance as they moderate "Tough Questions about Workplace Violence," a panel discussion webinar offered on two dates: March 29th and April 14th. Each session will provide a different set of panelists who will offer strategies and observations from the standpoint of their profession and experience. Feel free to attend one or both of the webinars.

February 26's tragic Kansas workplace shooting further raised the anxiety of employers, employees and OSHA about workplace violence. Numerous companies have hired consultants to perform Active Shooter Training. This is a good step but mass shootings are not the most common workplace violence situations.

This webinar will discuss a wide range of issues, including Evaluating Your Workplace, Protecting Isolated Workers or Employees at Customer sites, OSHA's Emphasis focuses on Workplace Violence, Executive Protection, and Evaluating and dealing with angry employees and difficult situations.
