7:30 AM - 9:30 AM

The Metro Atlanta Chamber and Fisher Phillips are pleased to present the 2016 Human Resources and Employment Law Seminar. Business owners, managers and human resources professionals are cordially invited to attend. The Human Resources and Employment Law Seminar is designed to provide business owners, managers and HR professionals with knowledge about the most prominent topics that impact their business.

White Collar Exemptions – Are You Ready for the New FLSA Regulations?

Are you paying your employees lawfully? Are all of your workers properly classified? This presentation will provide an overview of what business owners, employers, and human resources professionals need to know about wage-hour compliance in light of the U.S. Labor Department's recent revisions to the FLSA's "white collar" exemptions*.

In this presentation, you will learn

- What changes were made to the FLSA's "white collar" exemptions,
- What effect they will have on your business and operations,
- What you should do to prepare for them, and
- Why it is essential to be in FLSA compliance.

The Fair Labor Standards Act's Section 13(a)(1) executive, administrative, professional, outside-sales, and derivative exemptions have traditionally been referred to as the "white collar" exemptions.*
