Learn why it is essential for organizations to be aware of and mitigate the risks of cloud based threats. Failure to have a plan, and a team defined, in place and ready to act, puts your bottom line and your corporate values at risk and could become the single largest impediment to achieving your company's strategic goals.

National and regional very experienced professionals will share their observations and case studies. They will discuss the important and evolving HR role in coordinating leadership team across the IT, risk, legal, operations and security functions in aligning policies, communications, and raising employee and leadership awareness and vigilance in protecting data and combating the Insider Threat.
