The attorneys at Fisher Phillips are conducting a breakfast briefing employer guide to managing opioid & substance abuse in the workplace. The U.S. has one of the highest per capita rates of opioid use in the world. In recent years, more people 25 to 64 years old in the U.S. died from drug overdoses than from car crashes, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. About 71 percent of those deaths were tied to prescription opioids. Opioid medicines are commonly prescribed for work-related injuries and the use of these drugs can also be associated with conditions protected under the Americans with Disabilities Act. Substance abuse continues to be a problem, and indeed a crisis in some areas of Ohio. Many business leaders assume these issues are none of their business, but they can significantly affect work performance and subject employers to legal and operational risks. What about employee drug testing? In this breakfast briefing, we will help you better understand how the ADA, FMLA, OSHA, Ohio Workers' Compensation and other workplace laws interact and affect these issues in the workplace. This breakfast briefing will certainly benefit chief executive officers, chief operating officers, human resources professionals and in-house counsel with labor and employment responsibility. We invite you to bring your
