Join Fisher Phillips labor attorneys Todd A. Lyon and Lisa M. Vickery for a one-day interactive program on how to negotiate a better collective bargaining agreement. Whether you bargain with the union yourself or have a negotiator, this exciting program will provide your employer with a well-prepared machine for the next bargaining session with the union. We will help you get there by submitting your collective bargaining agreement to a 200-point evaluation.

You will have opportunities to work collaboratively with other HR and Labor Relations professionals in many hands-on activities to diagnose what subjects are mandatory, develop an effective impasse strategy in case of a breakdown, and recondition historical languages like seniority, management rights, and zipper clauses. Attendees are encouraged to bring their own collective bargaining agreements for personal reference.
