This breakfast briefing will focus on the unique challenges faced by businesses in managing FMLA, ADA and Worker's Compensation leave processes. We will address several issues including the proper way to document and manage leaves, an employer's rights and obligations relating to possible separation before, during, or after leave, and the changing obligations once an employee moves from FMLA to ADA leave status. We will also include a discussion on developing a centralized approach to management and leadership support in dealing with ADA and FMLA leaves and accommodations.
