The bad news is that 2019 was, once again, one of the more chaotic years in recent memory when it comes to new legal developments in the area of workplace law. And as an employer it was especially difficult to filter through and absorb information that's relevant for your Company, knowing that you had to decide whether and how to apply these developments to your day-to-day practices.

Join Fisher Phillips attorney Brett Owens for this unique webinar as he reviews and give an analysis of the trending employment law issues and critical cases from 2019 and how to work towards compliance and risk mitigation in 2020.
