As businesses across TN, MS, and AR begin to re-open, employers should consider how their actions with regard to their employees may be utilized by plaintiffs-side attorneys against the employers, and how employer actions as to their employees may even lead to lawsuits. Join attorneys Greg Grisham, Marilyn Higdon, and Jeff Weintraub as they take a look at the various issues that will confront employers as their workplaces re-open, including phased ramp-up requirements, employee testing, matters related to FFCRA and CARES Act requirements, the interplay with Title VII/FMLA/ADA and other anti-discrimination laws, the use of masks and other PPE, and general workforce safety concerns—all with an eye to preventing lawsuits!
