IS YOUR OFFICE ON SANTA'S LIST?

News

Dec 4, 2011

Philadelphia attorney Michael Galey was quoted on December 4 on Metro.us in the article "Is Your Office on Santa's List?" The difficult economic climate has forced many companies to weigh and shift priorities. Many have chosen to stop giving holiday bonuses. A bonus is something extra that employers provide if they can, depending on the company's financial ability. Some companies are struggling to keep all of their staff employed as they start the new year. Michael said: "For some companies, the economy is still dicey. For those that will give bonuses, the amounts will be all over the place."
